West Palm Beach Multifamily + South Florida NNN

Two new live searches · Beaches MLS · ranked by cap rate where the listing reports income

Summary

We built two new searches for investors this week. West Palm Beach multifamily, $750K to $5M (three units and up) shows 13 active listings, mostly 1920s to 1970s triplexes and fourplexes. 6 of them report enough income and expense detail to compute a cap rate, ranging from about 2.9% to 5.8%. South Florida NNN, $1M to $10M (Palm Beach, Broward and Miami-Dade; retail, office, industrial and mixed use with net-lease language) shows 14 qualifying listings after we removed one with gross leases and one that is still pre-construction.

Most NNN sellers do not publish a cap rate or NOI in the MLS. Of the 14, 5 report an NOI, and 1 of those works out to 7% or better. For the others, the cap rate depends on the lease, so we pull the rent roll, lease term and tenant credit for any listing you flag.

Live Beaches MLS pulls 2026-11-01: saved searches WSS-LP-MF-WPB-750Kto5M (West Palm Beach, list price $750K-$5M, 3+ units, active) and WSS-LP-COM-NNN-1Mto10M (Palm Beach, Broward and Miami-Dade; retail, office, industrial and mixed use; $1M-$10M; NNN in the public remarks; active). Two NNN-search results were excluded: one whose leases are gross or month-to-month (NNN is upside, not in place) and one pre-construction unit (excluded until open). Cap rates are computed from broker-reported NOI and are unverified; confirm against the offering memorandum, leases and trailing-12 financials.
